[英文摘要]

The academic conference on “Contemporary Religion and Empirical Research Methodology” was held October 8 – 10, 2003 at the Beijing Da Jue Temple. It was cosponsored by Renmin University of China, Institute for the Study of Buddhism and Religious Theory and the Institute for the Study of Christian Culture, the University of San Francisco Ricci Institute for Chinese-Western Cultural History Research, and the Luce Foundation of the America. Participants at the conference have all engaged in field research from diverse perspectives of sociology, history and anthropology. Based on experience, conferees explored the empirical approach to research in an open and in – depth, discussing the parameters of empirical research, validity issues, data analysis, and other appending problems.
